SERVING THE MONTEREY PENINSULA INCLUDING FORT ORD

Vol. 28, No. 39, Wed., Sept. 18, 1974 | 665 Broadway Seaside, California 93955 Area Code 408: 394-6632 | 10 cents per copy; $7.50 per year by mail

$10 Billion Mortgage Bill Introduced

Senators Alan Cranston (D., Calif.) and Edward W. Brooke (R., Mass.) introduced legislation today directing the Department of Housing and Urban Development to lend $10 billion in 8-¾ percent mortgages to spur the sale of 350,000 more homes over the next 12 months.

Half that number would be in new construction, the Senators said, and would result in over 300,000 jobs in the depressed home building industry.

Houses covered by the bill would have a ceiling price of $30,000, except in high-cost construction areas like California and areas of the Northeast, where homes selling at prices up to $45,000 would be included.

The Cranston-Brooke measure, called the "Home Purchase Assistance Act of 1974", is an amalgam of "the bes features" of two bills which the Senators separately introduced earlier this year — Cranston's S. 3456 and Brooke's S. 3436.

Representatives of the AFL-CIO and the National Assn. of Homebuilders testified in favor of both pieces of legislation at hearings chaired by Senator Cranston last month.

"We feel certain we will have the overwhelming support of the full Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee for our joint bill," the Senators said.

Both men, who serve on the Housing Subcommittee, said that consultations leading to formulations of the new bill "have been going on between our staffs for the past month."

Brooke, who has been named by President Ford to attend an economic pre-summit meeting on housing in Atlanta on Thursday, said he will discuss with labor and housing industry leaders who will be at the meeting the "best strategy for securing speedy passage of our bill."

Cranston the Brooke said they expect "an immediate and enthusiastic response" by potential homebuyers who now must pay interest rates of 9½ to 10 percent "when they are lucky enough to get a home loan".

In a telegram sent today to President Ford, they urged his support for the bill, pointing out that Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns has "suggested that steps be taken to temper the severe impact of tight monetary policy on the housing industry."

HUD Secretary James T. Lynn already has discretionary power to borrow housing funds at 8¾ percent interest and lend them out at the same rate. But the Cranston-Brooke bill would make mandatory the purchase of $5 billion in mortgages on around 175,000 new housing units, plus another $5 billion in mortgages on some 175,000 existing units, selling within the prescribed price ranges.

"The people who need homes to live in and the people who build homes for a living are victimized first and hardest by the Federal Reserve's tight money policy," the Senators said.

"Both the depressed home construction industry and the inadequately housed home-buying public must get some legitimate help from the government to offset the hardships that government policies are causing," they said.

Cranston and Brooke estimated that some 10 million families have been "pushed out of the housing market" since 1970 with the rise in conventional mortgage interest rates from 7 percent to the current 10 percent in some areas.

"Every time the rate goes up one percent," they said, "another 3½ million Americans are priced out of a home of their own."

"The Home Purchase Assistance Act will help the home buyer, who in most cases is a moderate to middle-income citizen. At the same time we must not neglect the pressing needs of lower-income families," Cranston and Brooke said.

"The Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, which was signed by President Ford on August 22, provides $1.2 billion in housing assistance for lower income families in fiscal 1975. We urge the President to commit these funds as soon as possible. There is no reason why we cannot produce 500,000 units of low income housing over the next year if we make the effort."

About 495,000 construction workers were jobless in August, 35,000 more than in July, the Senators pointed out.

The unemployment rate in the construction trades is 11.1 percent, more than double the rate of 5.4 percent for the labor force as a whole and an increase of 0.5 percent over July.

Housing starts nationwide are expected to total only 1,400,000 to 1,450,000 this year, as contrasted with 2,057,000 last year and 2.4 million in 1972.

In addition, about 120,000 new housing units, a substantial portion of which fall in the $30,000 and under bracket, stand empty because potential buyers can't get financing, Cranston and Brooke said.

The "Home Purchase Assistance Act" creates a Housing Trust Fund which will draw on the Treasury for loans of up to $10 billion per year. The money would be made available through the Government National Mortgage Association (Ginny Mae).

Mortgages purchased by GNMA would bear interest rates comparable to the long-term Treasury borrowing rate, which is currently 8¾ percent. The market rate for mortgage money, where it is available at all, is currently in the rate of 9½ to 10 percent.

The Housing Trust Fund would operate without expense to the taxpayer, the Senators said. While the trust fund would be able to obtain loans from the Treasury at a rate comparable to that paid on long-term Treasury issues, all loans from the Treasury would be repayable with interest.

Fort Ord Awards Sugar Contract To Minority Firm

Dale N. Schroeder, Procurement officer, Fort Ord, CA, announced the awarding of a $167,000 contract to provide sugar for Ft. Ord to the minority owned Nash & Associates firm of Seaside.

The first truck loads of assorted sugar began arriving at Ft. Ord Friday, Sept. 13, 1974, and marked the first time that a minority-owned firm had succeeded in being the low bidder for food items at this military installations.

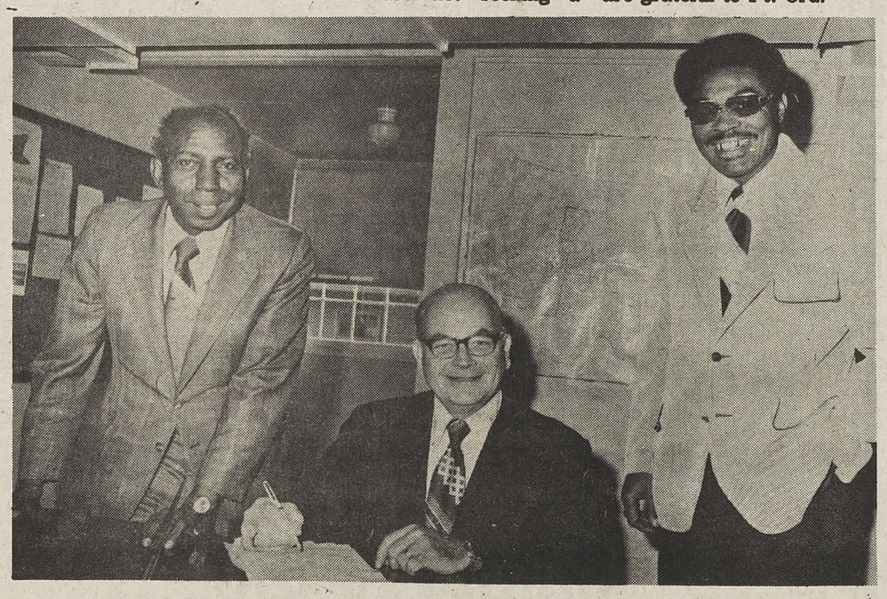

"We are justifiably proud of our accomplishment," stated Zaban Mathis of Nash & Associates, "for it was our first attempt, and we were competing against California and Hawaii (C & H) Sugar Company, experts in the field.

Mathis, a graduate of San Jose State University, has been a resident of Seaside for many years, and has expressed a grave concern over the lack of minority involvement in the economic mainstreams of the county.

Nash & Associates was founded by its president, Thomas Nash, in Oakland, CA, basically as Public Relationstever is necessary to become involved in the economic mainstreams," Mr. Nash stated, "for the time has come when we must provide jobs for our people.

"We are not seeking a handout, but a hand-up. At the time we submitted our bid, it was unknown that we were a minority firm. We did not have to use the provisions of the affirmative action program to secure it, but rather, we competed on the basis of being the low bidder, and won the bid by percentage points lower than that of our competitor. This is how minorities must become involved.

"However there are those who, even though the law applies, would not give us a chance to be competitive. These are the ones we must take the necessary action against through the Affirmative Action program. We are grateful to Ft. Ord."

Monterey County Charged in Discrimination Suit

A Salinas Black man filed a suit naming Monterey County charging the couty with "employment discrimination on the basis of race and national origin."

Leonard Roberts, 25, and the Salinas office of California Rural Legal Assistance filed the suit, class action, in U.S. District Court in San Francisco Aug. 28.

Individual county supervisors and County Administrator Edwin McCauley were served with summonses Tuesday, Sept. 10, during the supervisors' regular meeting.

"The plaintiff and the class he represents have at all times been denied employment and promotion opportunities by defendants solely because of their race or national origin," the suit alleges.

Roberts, who holds a bachelor of arts dual degree of psychology and Afro-American studies from Sonoma State University, said he applied for employment with the county as a probation officer in August of 1973.

Despite his qualifications, Roberts said he was not hired.

"Plaintiff is informed and believes and alleges that several Anglo applicants who were less qualified than he have been hired by the county as probation officers," the suit claims.

The suit says that the county is itself the largest employer within the area and that of the approximately 1,923 persons on full employment status in September of 1973, only 58, or 3 percent were black.

The suit says that in the county, only 1 percent of the professional jobs are held by blacks and that black employees "are paid at rates substantially lower than the rates paid to Anglo employees."

Defendants routinely place blacks who are hired in limited advancement, dead-end positions in which they are deprived of promotion or advancement opportunities, according to the suit.

The suit asks that the court order the county to change hiring policies, and award Roberts monetary damages in the form of back pay equal to a salary he would have received as a probation officer.

It also asks compensatory damages of $5,000 and punitive damages of $10,000, plus court costs.

Supervisors went into executive session to discuss the lawsuit and emerged to announce that they had hired the San Francisco law firm of Littler, Mendelson and Fastiff to defend the county

Kelly Named Seaside High School Principal

Roger Kelly, 43, has been named principal of the Seaside High School in the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District. Dr. Harrison, Superintendent of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District made the announcement Wednesday, September 11. Dr. Harrison said that Mr. Kelly successfully competed with a number of inside and outside candidates. He is an outstanding educator and the district is fortunate to have an educator of that caliber in our district to fill the job.

Kelly replaces James Solberg, who last month accepted the position of Director of Secondary Education in the San Ramon Unified School District in Contra Costa County after eleven years in Monterey.

Kelly joined the Monterey School system as a physical education teacher in the fall of 1961 at the Fitch Junior High School on Fort Ord. Before accepting the Fitch appointment, he experienced his first teaching assignment during 1958 and '59 in the Pacific Grove Unified School District. Kelly received his Bachelor of Science Degree from the State University of New York in 1958 and his Master's Degree from San Jose State, in 1959.

Following his Fitch assignment, Kelly transferred to the King (Portola) Junior High School in 1965. In addition to his physical education duties, he was also in charge of student affairs.

In 1968 he was appointed acting vice principal of King, and in 1969 he received a regular vice-principal title.

Kelly was promoted to his current assignment as principal of the Fremont Junior High School in 1971.

Military Appreciation Week Plans Underway

Plans for the Third Annual Military Appreciation Week (Oct. 21-27) with emphasis upon a special welcome to the 7th Division and Headquarters DLI are now being made by several Peninsula organizations with the Seaside Chamber of Commerce serving as coordinator. The week of events will include special sports competition (socko, volleyball, bowling) between cities and between military installations. Sunday, Oct. 27th will be the play-off for the championships. Participating merchants will give discounts to the military and hold sales during the week, and some veterans organizations may hold open house Saturday, the 26th.

Sunday the 27th will be the big day with an old fashioned picnic to be held from 12 noon until 4 p.m. at the Monterey Fairgrounds. A barbecue, sporting events, youth activities and live entertainment are planned. It will be an old fashioned outing for the military and their families.

Last year it was estimated that guests at the picnic totaled some 3000, including military and their dependents and civilian participants. Peninsula merchants purchased tickets to defray the expenses, and gave them to their military customers free. Merchants participating this year will be advertised at a later date.

Organizations involved in planning the event include: Seaside and Marina Chambers of Commerce; Seaside Post 591, Monterey Post 41 and Marina Post 694 American Legions; Seamont and Marina VFW Posts; Knights of Columbus; NCOA; Seaside Lions Club and representatives from Fort Ord, DLI, NFGS and the Coast Guard.

Other organizations and individuals, plus as many businesses as possible are urged to participate. Meetings are being held each Wednesday at noon at the Seaside American Legion Post to make this a great event. Call Seaside Chamber for information: 394-6501.

Fellowships Available

Applications are now being taken for 20 available White House fellowships to be granted for the 1975-76 year, according to Rep. Yvonne B. Burke (D-37th District, Los Angeles)

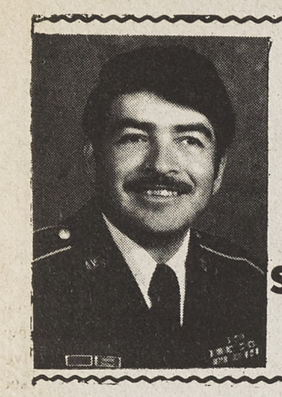

This non-partisan program seeks to draw America's brightest and most promising young people between the ages of 23 through 35 to Washington for a closer examination of the Federal government.

Rep. Burke said that, to date, 169 young men and women have been selected to participate in this program since its inception in 1964.

"Those selected have come from many professions, backgrounds, and cultures. They have returned to their private lives with a deeper understanding of public service and the active role each individual must play in our democracy," the Congresswoman states.

General requirements are age (23-35), and not employed by the Executive Branch of the Federal government (except career military personnel).

Those interested are invited to call or write Rep. Burke's District Office, 4041 Marlton Avenue, Los Angeles, Ca. 90008, 295-5424.

"Brother Sun, Sister Moon" Now Showing

The Seaside Performing Arts Association operating the Del Rey Theater as one of its ventures brings the Franco Zeffirelli classic "Brother Sun, Sister Moon" continuing through September 20th.

This Paramount picture focuses on the early years of St. Francis of Assisi, who rejected the material world to which he had been born to seek his individual communion with what God had created. According to Brad Vaughn, chairman of the Performing Arts Board, Church groups will be offered special admission prices to see this movie. There is no special day for the showing, but the group must include at least twenty persons. For further information call 394-8611.

The special Church admission is only the first of many features the non-profit association intends to use to promote cultural activities in the theater. Vaughn said he intends to introduce special passes for senior citizens and children in the future. These passes will admit them to all movies at half price.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Last week a 74-year old lady asked a private agency for help. She needed household assistance, having injured her back. The Welfare Department was told of her need. Next day, a homemaker was sent to help once a week.

Two days later the lady called again, requesting a walker to help her move around. Arrangements were made to have one delivered. She was urged to see her doctor and was offered transportation.

On September 9, Telecare from Community Hospital called the agency. The lady wanted to see a doctor. It was a holiday, so transportation provided by Community Services wasn't available. Ambulance service could be be provided through Medicare, because approval comes from the San Jose office, which was closed, as was Welfare. The Seaside Fire Department could only use their emergency unit to take people to a hospital. The Red Cross can only transport people from Carmel, due to an agreement with the Ambulance Company.

When the lady said she'd go to the hospital, an ambulance was authorized. She is now receiving excellent care.

Private agencies have drawn the short straws in funding because many people feel it's government's responsibility to provide for the poor, sick and old. Many Welfare workers are dedicated, hard-working people, but sometimes after years of such work, they become inured to the needs of others. Nobody blames them for sticking to their 8 to 5 day, but surely, some provision could be made for those who plan so poorly that they get sick on a government holidy.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Helen Gressett

President Ford Urged To Appoint Black

SAN FRANCISCO (NNPA)-- Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, president of the National Newspaper Publishers Association -- the Black Press of America -- urged President Gerald M. Ford in a mailgram recently to appoint a black to his Cabinet. He also pledged his support to President Ford. The full text of the mailgram follows,

Mr President:

Despite the nightmare of Watergate, we fervently hope that your Administration will strongly affirm your inaugural statement that our Great Republic is a government of laws and not of men; and 25 million blacks in America, more numerous than the population of 157 nations of the world, will witness in deeds your commitment to be the President to all the people.

In this the 111th post-Lincoln Emancipation year, the National Newspaper Publishers Association -- the Black Press of America, pledges its support to you and your Administration in your every effort to give substantive meaning to this solmn promise which will sure lead black Americans out of the nadir of "benign neglect" into the sunlight of full participation in the decision making processes at the highest levels in the Executive Branch of the Federal Government.

To achieve these laudable aims, the Black Press of America urges the appointment of blacks to the following important policy making positions: Member of the Cabinet, Counselor to the President, Assistant to the President, and member of the personnel placement section of the White House.

Racism is the most deadly disease threatening domestic peace, tranquillity and cooperation. No inspiring agenda for the observance of the Bicentennial of the birth of our nation or the projection of goals to be pursued in the third century of our nationhood can be achieved without the inspiring example to our people and especially our youth that your Administration is wise enough, honest enough and courageous enough to put the national commitment to eradicate racism as an agenda item second to none.

Surely a nation inspired through Presidential mandate which led to visitations to the moon can find the will again under Presidential inspiration to achieve a victory over racism, humanity's greatest scourge.

Sincerely,
Carlton B. Goodlett, Ph.D., M.D., President

PG&E Offers Hints To Cut Heating Costs, Save Fuel

In the battle to slash living costs and save fuel supplies, homeowners can hold gas and electric bills to a minimum by preparing now for the winter, PG&E advises.

Proper care of home heating equipment and adequate insulation offer ways to get the most out of each energy dollar.

Heating costs can be cut as much as 45 percent by weatherstripping and proper insulation of walls and ceilings. Because heat rises, cracks and crevices under the roof usually are responsible for the greatest heat loss. Attic floors should have 6" of insulation to provide protection from the cold. Insulation batts tacked inside sloping rafters also will help prevent heat loss.

All cracks or excess space around doors and windows should be sealed with felt or metal stripping. Sweeps will keep cold air from entering along the bottoms of doors.

An efficient heating system can save fuel and keep home heating costs down. PG&E offers these tips:

1. Clean heating equipment thoroughly, removing dust, lint and other obstructions from all accessible parts. Clean or replace dirty filters that make the furnace work harder to provide heat. (Turn off thermostat and all blower controls before cleaning.)

2. Heating system ducts should be checked for air leaks, especially around the connecting joints. Leaking warm air can be costly, but usually leaks can be repaired with cloth adhesive tape. Where exposed to cold air, heating ducts should be wrapped with insulation.

3. Make sure the gas furnace burner produces a blue flame. A yellow flame indicates improper combustion and requires adjustment.

4. Move furniture or rugs that block hot or cold air registers and reduce furnace efficiency.

5. Set thermostat at 68 degrees and leave it, except for turning it down when you leave home or go to bed. Turning up the thermostat does not produce more heat; it merely keeps the furnace operating longer, wasting fuel and increasing your bill.

As the weather turns cold, let "close it" become your rule of thumb. Close up unused rooms, and close the heating vents into those rooms. Close the camper when the fireplace is not in use so heat does not escape up the chimney. Keep all exterior doors--and those to garage, attic and basement--tightly closed to keep heat indoors where it is needed. At night and on gloomy days draw drapes across windows to avoid up to 16 percent loss of heat but keep drapes open on sunny days to take advantage of nature's heat.

To prevent further heat waste use hot water efficiently. Properly insulate hot water pipes exposed to cold air to hold down heating costs.

Replace worn faucet washers and turn off faucets to prevent leaking water. A dripping hot water tap can keep your water heater working to heat water that just runs down the drain.

Set the water heater thermostat at 140 degrees, the normal setting, or slightly above if a dishwasher is used.

These steps can save energy and help hold bills to a minimum, PG&E says, but some factors affecting energy use and heating costs are outdoors, not inside. The prevailing winds in the locality and whether the location is sheltered or exposed can make a difference.

Other variables are the size of the house, the height of ceilings, the kind of roof, the amount of window glass, the kind of drapes and whether the floors are bare or covered with rugs.

"Pretty" People Have Their Problems, Too

In the words of Dirty Red, the immortal philosopher: "Ain't nobody got nothing made." You would think that a bunch of dudes out there in Hollywood, who make their living looking handsome and being male sex symbols, would be over the hump. "Not so," says a bevy of black Beau Brummels in September EBONY.

Picture poor Calvin Lockhart (Libra). When he arrived in New York City at age 19 from his native Nassau, Bahamas, he was so pretty that people would follow him through the streets. The poor fellow was so distraught by all this that he tried to disfigure his face with scissors, wanting to destroy "that thing they had in their minds about me." Dirty and the boys on the block pity you and others like you, Calvin.

Or take "Dark Gable" himself, Billy Dee Williams (Aries). Billy Dee is crushed by the burdens of being a matinee idol to millions of red-blooded black women, who pant and coo at the mere sight of him. Says Billy Dee, stuffing himself on humble pie, "I think I have a lot of sex appeal, but I never thought of myself as being handsome."

In September EBONY, a whole bunch of unusually handsome black men rap about some of the disadvantes of being good looking. This is Fred "The Hammer" Williamson (Pisces) talking: "I have always known that I was a showpiece kind of a guy."

Muhammad "I am so pretty" Ali bares it all for the first time. "I never believed that I was pretty. It was only a publicity stunt." You sure had us all fooled Champ.

The editors will get a lot of mail from women who are Belafonte boosters. "Why wasn't he on the cover?" And even worse, the editors will get it for not even running "Sir" Sidney Poitier in color...At 47, Harry Belafonte (Pisces) has perhaps moved from the pretty stage to one of mature handsomeness, and Sidney Poitier (Pisces) never really made it as a "looker" although many women consider him one of the most handsome men on the screen.

Jesse "The Country Preacher" Jackson (Libra) says "it is what's up top that counts," meaning it's brains that make a man attractive. Look at Booker T. Washington, W.E.B. DuBois and Frederick Douglass..

Julian Bond (Capricorn) who will certainly never run for President of the Ugly Club, says that his baby-face charm has worked against him. "Honey, you're just too young and sweet-looking to be up there at the Capitol with all those old men."

Well, September EBONY left my old friend Dirty Red out of the running, but he's not too concerned. "There ain't no more ugly people says Dirty - everybody is beautiful these days - ask any black dude on the block."

March of Dimes Issues Warnings

With more and more drugs flooding the market, the National Foundation-March of Dimes is issuing special warnings to pregnant women about the dangers of indiscriminate use of even the most common non-prescription pain-killers, tranquilizers and stimulants. Even the use of such taken-for-granted drugs as alcohol and nicotine is questioned in the special pamphlet. "Unprescribed Drugs and Birth Defects Prevention."

In simple question and answer form, the attractive, easy-to-read new folder identifies a drug and discusses reasons for consulting a physician about the use of such common over-the-counter pills as vitamins, sleeping tablets, laxatives and aspirin. A list of the "no-no" drugs is included which may be torn out and pasted inside the medicine cabinet as a handy reminder.
